

The street art in paris

On leaving the subway library Francois Mitterrand in the 13th betting round on the wall across the way there was a big beaver from waste by Bordalo an artist who does street art.

Further in our exit we have to climb a staircase that was a street art opener that was a painting on the counter step up the stairs

Then we went to an art gallery that exhibited works of street artist who was the nevercrew and in front of front of the gallery there was a caricature of the gallerist

Then from a bridge we have observed a work from Tristan Eaton who is name Peace tower
Who is on a castle of water Or he represented the word peace

Further in our walk we could see a work which is called Dr house realized by invader. The work has the effigy of the famous Dr. House in the tv series bearing his name.

Even farther on we found a close work, the first being realized by Conor Harrington, who is called Embrace and Struggle, and then the second, who is Pantonio, who represents birds on the wall of a parking lot and whose work is called agile fragile.

We have been able to observe a work by David de la Mano who is interested in reproducing movement and man

This is two different opener the first is realized by the duo Faile and is named I held my breath that is on the picture the greatest work and the second is the boy left on the picture is a Seth's work

In our walk we could see This beautiful fresco by Shepard Fairey Which is called Rise above Rebel which represents a woman who could be a Rebel of a country at war

The we saw a work of c215 which has represented a cat, c215 to realize as most of the artists who produce work in paris it is also done around the world.

This is a work of Turncoat which is called D * Face and it is about the reproduction of a canvas we have it observe further in our release

We have two works by the artist INTI the first is named Sudaka and it shows a man in a particular holding and the second shows us a woman and the work is nome la madre secular 2

At the end before taking the metro we stopped at a park where there was a mural and we took group photos all the works seen are not in the slideshow but only the most part
